BY BROADAN WALL.

NEW YORK, October 2.—Anthracite oal stocks are in good demand, Lehigh Valley changing hands at the closing price of July 30. The increase in passenger rates on this road will, it is estimated, add 1 per cent to the earnings on the stock during the coming year, and the trade reports for September will probably show the largest production of anthracite coal in the history of the industry.

Many of the industry.

Many of the low-priced industrials are increasing in favor with a large number of buying orders just below the figures at which transactions are authorized. While the iron industry has been slow in reflecting the export business that will undoubtedly develop, an active and an advancing market is looked for in Steel common, when the Stock Exchange reopens for business. In the copper trade the foreign demand is more pronounced. Orders for exports were booked to-day for points in the Far East, hitherto out of reach of our manufacturers. This is but the beginning of a business that is expected to expand rapidly during the next two Bradstreet's Report.

Bradstreet's to-morrow will say for Richmond and vicinity:

Perhaps the most encouraging incident of the week was the receipt by local manufacturers of harness and saddlery of substantial orders for artillery harness and cavalry saddles. It is understood that the orders, which are of sufficient volume to keep the factories working at full capacity for several weeks, were purchased indirectly by European government.

The "Buy a Bale of Cotton" movement is increasing in favor, and there are at several points organized efforts to extend it. Orders for seasonable merchandise are small and almost entirely for immediate needs only. The demand for building 'material has decreased, but there is a noticeable improvement in the demand for box lumper, some large users of packages having entered the market. Wearing apparel at retail is dull because of warm weather. Fruit and produce are in the same for building needs of warm weather. Fruit and produce are in the factorial of the camp. The matter of holding next year's reunion in Petersburg was discussed.

Dun's Trade Review.

New Fork, October 2.—Dun's Review tomorrow will say:

The abnormal business conditions created by the war continue, and caution and retrenchment still halt enterprise; yet there is a significant growth of confidence. Several factors contribute to this situation.

Undoubtedly the improvement in the financial markets is slow, but it is steady, and the measures taken to promote limited dealings in securities under stringent regulations make at least the partial opening of the London and New York exchanges a newer possibility. Even the suggestion of this event creates a better sentiment, so much does all corporate enterprise depend upon open security markets.

Another factor is the active export movement of grain, which has a twofold effect
as it aids greatly in restoring more normal conditions in international exchange and contributes mightily to the prosperity of the West by insuring high prices for the large crops that have been raised in that section.

Failures for the week in the United States were 46, against 234 last year, and in Canada, 90, against 53 last year.

Bank exchanges were $2,161,485,000, a decrease of $2.3 per cent from a year ago.
